

Italy

Areas of interest and skill set

It is very good for job seekers to have good qualifications for the job they are looking for, something like a degree in the field they wish to work in.

Acquiring information on jobs

There are a few ways to find a job in Italy. For example, you can search the Internet, a work agency or look in the newspaper. In order to get a job you are required to have many qualifications.

CV and cover letter

A CV must contain the following: Your education and if you have a degree in a particular subject. Your experience in jobs like the one you are applying for and also some information about yourself.

Correspondence and interviews

The company you are applying at will contact you either via a phone call or email, inviting you to an interview to gain information on you and your personality. Then they make a decision about if they will hire you or not.
